

Reasons to childproof your home:

Look at your home through your child's eyes and you can see how many common objects may be potential hazards.

ELECTRICAL OUTLETS:

Safety plates prevent any objects from being inserted into sockets.

TOILET BOWL:

Toilet locks prevent playing in dirty water and possible drowning.

FURNITURE:

Safety straps keep furniture from tipping onto child.

CABINETS AND DRAWERS:

Affixing latches allow cabinets to lock and keep your child away from dangerous objects.

STAIRWAY/BANISTERS:

Safety gates keep your child from falling down stairs. Plexiglas guards prevent your child from falling through or getting trapped between banister rails.

LOOSE WIRES:

Cord control kits and power strip covers protect your child from electrical shock.

As concerned parents, you know these small, innocent trouble spots can result in cuts, bruises, broken bones, or worse. Serious injury can occur in a matter of minutes. By calling today, you are taking a step towards creating a safer home for your child.

7 Steps to a Baby-Safe Home:

1. Tall lamps or furniture should be secure or blocked to prevent baby from climbing on them or tipping them over.
2. Keep fireplace area blocked, including removing gas key from keyhole.
3. Poisons and toxic household chemicals should be locked up or kept out of child's reach.
4. Crib attachments should be installed on the side of the crib facing the wall. Mirrors and other objects should be secured. Otherwise, your baby could use these items to climb out of the crib.
5. House plants or flowers should be kept separate from your child, as some are poisonous if ingested.
6. Windows and doors should be kept closed to prevent child from wandering and from taking a dangerous fall.
7. Most importantly, NEVER LEAVE A BABY ALONE, NOT EVEN FOR A MOMENT.
